Acid Dyspepsia, commonly called heart-burn of sour stomach, is a form of indiges-tion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to promptly digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condi-tion soon becomes chronic, and, being an everyday occulrence, is given but little at-tention. Because Dyspepsia is not imme-diately fatal, many people do nothing for the trouble.

This is plain, as every organ every nerve in the blood is replemshed from the food digested. If the food is properly digested the blood is pure, the nerves steady, but if supplied from a sour, fermenting, decaying mass the blood is vitlated, poisoned, and the result is shown in sleeplessness, lack of energy, poor appetite, nervousness. Every trifle is magnified and the dyspeptic sees nothing but the dark side of everything.

and the dyspeptic sees nothing but the dark side of everything.

Within a recent period a remedy has been also an additional and stomach troubles. It is known as stuart's Dyspensia Tablets, and it is now becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

It is not claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia and stomach weakness in its various forms, but for this it has been shown to be unequaled. The eminent specialists, Reed and O'Leary, have recently stated that they considered Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets an unfalling specific for disorders of the digestive organs, and the remarkable cures made in cases of long standing dyspepsia proves that this remedy has extraordinary merit.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package, and while it promptly and effectually restores a vigorous digestion, at the same time is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion.

Carlyle, Ill., Dec. 13.—Recently a traveling doctor visited the houses of Henry Keister and Albert Buehler, well-to-do Brookside farmers. The stranger was soliciting for an Indianapolis firm. He said his medicine possessed wonderful curalive power. He made a contract with each farmer, and they signed notes for $100 each, payable in six menths. They say the stranger agreed to effect a cure or no pay, but they will have to settle with Fred Reinhardt, a Sandoval banker, regardless of any contract. The doctor soid both notes to him, and he has notified the farmers that he will expect his money at maturity.

Newsboy's Love for Once Nameless Cur Who Now Answers to Three Aliasas.

PRINCE, FRANKO AND LURCH.

Dog Catchers Took Him Away and His Masters Were Compelled to Hurriedly Raise Two Dollars.

New York, Dec. 13.-There has just come light a story of street boys' good-cartedness which is worth telling. It involves the efforts of two newsboys to eep their dearest friend-a common cur-com destruction. He answers to the various names of

"Prince," "Lurch" and "Franko."
It was early in the month of June when Prince first appeared upon the scene. He was then a puppy and was discovered by Willie Harron in a waste paper can shortv before dark. His cries brought Willie to the can. Some mischi-vous boy, or, as Willie said, "some bum," had put him there for fun.

Willie has a chum by the name of Conny Looney: a bright Irish boy, and it was not long before the excited shouts of his friend "Say, sin't be a lolla?" was his first re-mark as he lifted the dirty little puppy in his arms, and they both fondled it.

The puppy seemed to know it had found The puppy seemed to know it had found two friends, for it barked a diminutive joy-trio.

"Let's keep him," said Willie. "I seen him first and we'll call him Prince. Don't yer wish he was yours?"

But the puppy seemed quite willing to serve two masters, and, after a few words, it was agreed that the boys should own him share and share alike. him share and share alike.

Conny, after a great deal of persuasion, agreed to let the dog sleep with Wille at his home, and they separated for the night. That incident was the preface for a chapter of growing affection between the puppy and the two boys. They nursed him and bathed him until he became quite respectable for a street our. dike the dog, and this helped in securing talte a trace for the newstops.

At this point in Frince's life a third has a torner of the intersecting avenues, there was a little Italian boothack by the home of Franko.
